

MAJ AIRYU'S PLANETARY LEAVE
VS
LCM GINJI'S PLANETARY LEAVE

Airyu (lying in a chaise lounge): Hey folks! How's it goin? I'm gonna mix things up a little this week. It seems that we're all basically out to lunch, so I'm broadcasting from the surface of Garret 7. Yutzka's off visiting his family on Eriadu, and Ginji's out taking a break too. I've sent a probe droid after Ginji, to keep up on how he's doing. click

Ginji: Doot doot doo jumps into the water and starts swimming

Airyu: How exciting. I also have a probe droid of my own with me, but I've got a different plan for it puts on a helmet and takes out a military-grade grappling pistol

Meanwhile, in orbit around the planet Garret 7...

Drax: Good afternoon, pilots. You've all been working really hard, and it's paid off. We're the biggest guy on the block now, and as such, the Fleet Commander himself has authorized some planetary leave on- what's that?

Justin: That blip on the radar? I don't know... it's too small to be anything but... a probe droid? On-screen.

The display screen crackles to life, displaying an odd sight... an Imperial probe droid, one of the Vanguard's own, attached to a tow cable.

Justin: Yep... it's a probe droid, but what's it carrying?

Droid: whirrrrrr turns suddenly to the left

Drax: Justin... where exactly did Airyu say he was going on his planetary leave?

Justin: Something like... Garret...

Drax: HE'S ON GARRET 7... oh no. Why can't we just get rid of him on fridays!?!

Airyu: AAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHH!!!!

The sudden movements of the probe droid are too much for MAJ Airyu's arms to take, and he loses his grip. Thankfully, instead of spinning off hopelessly into space, he slams into one of the windows. This window happens to be the one that Drax and Justin are standing near.

Airyu: THUD

Justin: Gyah!! loses his balance and falls into one of the crew pits on the bridge That's it! I'm ending this friday tradition. reaches for a button

Airyu: Well... at least I'm still in one piece, and my helmet's intact...

A turbolaser turret swivels its barrels towards Airyu's position "on the bridge" of the Vanguard.

Airyu: ... Crap

Moral: When being towed behind a speedboat or probe droid, hold on for dear life.